Although the full returns have not been made as yet, it is evident from those already in that the charity ball of Thanksgiving night, given by the Catholic Church for the benefit of St. Joseph's Orphan Asycess. The sisters and orphans of the instiknights and to all who contributed to the success of the occasion.

THE WELLING RESIDENCE.
VALUABLE PROPERTY LOST
Welling Residence and Major French's Rare Properties Destroyed by Fire.
Gallant Rescue of Two Women—Many Costly and Beautiful Articles Burned to Ashes.
The old Welling residence, at 15th street and Welling place, Columbia Heights, built for many years occupied by the late Dr. Welling, president of Columbian University, and now owned by Mrs. Alice Hill, was completely gutted by fire, which was discovered about 3 o'clock this morning, and the lessee, Maj. L. H. French, and two of his servants, narrowly escaped with their lives. The major, who is also a retired physician, was awakened about the hour of the disaster, where the servants were sleeping, and as he rushed through the hall, he realized that the entire lower part of the structure was on fire. Finding the servants' room door locked, he broke it and hastily forced the women out of the window to the cornice, whence he helped them to the ground. Major French was considerably cut on the hands, wrists and legs by broken glass and his mustache and hair were singed by the flames.

Completely Destroyed.
By the time the inmates had gotten safely out, as described, the entire building was blazing from cupola to cellar, and in a few minutes its interior and contents were completely destroyed. The heavy brick walls and portions of the floors and roof were all that remained of the residence, and no vestige was left of the luxurious richness of its decorations, which had become noted in the home by the owner and envied by the public. The furnishings and art treasures of Maj. French, in appropriate keeping with such surroundings, were also completely destroyed. He possessed an invaluable collection of rare and beautiful articles, gathered during years of enthusiastic and liberal search abroad, and which included lost were several gobelin and other tapestries, antique cabinets, a rare collection of Dutch antiques, cameos, Venetian and Moorish rarities and many fine pictures, including a very large cattle piece by Tryon.

The Insurance.
Maj. French had commenced removing his things, preparatory to their transfer to New York, and had already sent many smaller articles and pictures away, the latter embracing two Murillos, a Rembrandt and a Van Dyke. He had carried until September last an insurance of $50,000 on the contents of the residence, but reduced it then to $25,000, which is carried in various local and outside companies.

The residence was insured for $17,500 in the Higgs Insurance Company of this city.
Numerous visitors examined the ruins today, and the opinion was general that it was the most destructive fire in their memory of recent years, a thing being spared. The origin of the disaster cannot be discovered.

This different fire alarm boxes were pulled by as many different persons, the first one being 246, located at 14th and Stoughton streets, about four squares away. This box was the second of a fire alarm headquarters show, was pulled at 2:54 a.m., engine companies 11 and 9 and truck B responding in the order named.
Three minutes later, at 3:01, the first fire alarm headquarters, located at 13th and Clifton streets, was pulled, and a minute later the box at 15th and Clifton streets, 85, was pulled. Neither of the boxes last named was sounded, however, as box 246 had already been sent out by fire alarm headquarters. A special alarm was sounded at 3:04, however, which called engine companies 7, 1 and 12 and truck D to the scene of the fire, in the order named.
No. 11 engine company, located on 14th street, B, the last named company, the nearest truck, having to run from New Hampshire avenue and M street, and practically up hill all the way.

While it is contended by some people residing in the neighborhood that there was some delay in pulling the fire alarm box, the officials of the fire department state that there was not a moment's delay in sounding the alarm after it had been sent in from the first box pulled, 246, and that the companies responding did so in a remarkably quick time. The nearest box to the scene of the fire, 85, was not pulled, however, until the others further away had been pulled.

KANN'S BUSY CORNER.
Modest Beginning Six Years Ago Has Large Present.
The well-known establishment of Messrs.
S. Kann, Sons & Co., more popularly known as "The Busy Corner," 8th street and Market place, is one of the best examples in the District of success attained by fulfilling each and every promise made to the purchasing public. About six years ago this firm, then almost wholly unknown to the people of the District, began its career in a modest way, a trade which increased from season to season so rapidly that it became absolutely necessary to acquire by degrees additional store space.
The original store was a building about twenty by ninety feet, the ground in front of the store being a frontage of seventy feet on Market place, with a depth on 8th street of 20 feet, the buildings being several stories high. This extension, however, is by no means sufficient to accommodate the growing trade of the firm, and it is only a question of a short time before the establishment will have to be enlarged to a still greater extent.

The success of Messrs. S. Kann, Sons & Co. is attributed by the members of the firm to a determination to give dollar for dollar, and penny for penny. This was the policy determined upon when the house was first opened here, a policy which they say has never been departed from, and in support of this assertion the members of the firm refer to the purchasing public, as exhibited by its immense trade. The establishment is, as is well known, a department store, in which almost every article desirable can be purchased. Over six hundred persons comprise the force of the establishment, and to deliver the goods, the chassis, horse-drawn and twenty wagons are daily employed. Nearly fifty different departments, in which anything, from a pin to a silk gown, can be made up, are operated. Each department is presided over by an employee specially engaged for the purpose, the heads of the various departments being assisted by clerks having special knowledge of the goods sold in their respective departments.

The firm also enjoys the reputation, it is claimed, of being the only one in the District which buys direct from the mills.
Having been jobbers in Baltimore for the past thirty years, the senior member of the firm, S. Kann, sr., spends six months in each year buying for both the Washington and Baltimore establishments all kinds of merchandise, including toys.
Such an establishment, both because of its extent and the character of its stock, as well as its policy of giving dollar for dollar or half a dollar for the purchaser in search of holiday goods to visit. In recognition of the demands of the holiday trade, this floor department has been taken by the firm to provide such purchasers with every article suitable for this season of the year.
Its toy department, for instance, is considered to be the largest and best in the city. Its main toy department is located in the rear of the main store, and the enlarged stock arrangements have been made to enable this department by the occupation of a part of the third floor. One of this floor a space 40 by 124 feet is devoted to housefurnishings, china, ware, bric-a-brac and like goods. On the same floor is a space 40 by 90 feet devoted exclusively to displaying draperies, upholsterings and similar articles.

On the second floor the firm is establishing a special attraction, a space 40 by 60 feet being occupied by thirty or more tables, on which are displayed articles which are especially attractive to holiday purchasers, each article being sold at 25 cents, including jewelry, leather goods, etc. Indeed, to this department, really a 25-cent bazaar, will be taken from about every other department for display and sale. Another new feature is the boys' clothing department, where the best-made clothing for boys can be obtained. Another attractive department is that wherein cloaks and like goods are displayed.

Every department of this establishment, in fact, is made especially attractive, and it would take several columns of the Star to detail the articles and goods going to make up the stock carried by the firm. It is sufficient to say, perhaps, that every line of goods is carried in this stock, and that every article or piece of goods is guaranteed to be just as represented. Every purchaser, no matter how humble or how small the amount expended, may, therefore, depend upon being given in return dollar for dollar. That, as above stated, has been the policy of the firm from the day of its advent in business here, and a policy today which it proposes carrying out just as long as it is engaged in business here.

SEINING THE CANAL.
Measures in Progress to Save Bass for Anglers.
The executive committee of the Game and Fish Protective Association of the District of Columbia will meet at No. 1333 F street northwest next Monday night to arrange for seining the canal and to provide for legislation in behalf of better fish and game laws.
The seining of the canal two years ago was eminently successful, as some 40,000 or 50,000 small-mouth bass were caught and released immediately in the Potomac river, besides immense quantities of minnows and young fish, among which were many additional bass, the ensuing increase in angling being unquestionably due to the seining.
Mr. George M. Bowers, United States fish commissioner, has announced that he will cheerfully aid in the enterprise this season and will furnish the superintendent and a force of men to do the work of seining.
To expedite the work, the family vacations will be required, and this will doubtless be forthcoming when anglers are apprised of the fact.

General Manager George L. Nicholson of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal expects to turn the water from that highway next week, and will afford every facility for the prosecution of the work of seining the pool that remain when the water is drawn off and in which the bass congregate.

WHERE SANTA CLAUS DEALS.
Buys His Holiday Shoes at Wm. Hahn Co.'s.
"Santa Claus buys his stock of shoes here," is the significant statement displayed on a sign in one of the show windows at the establishment of William Hahn & Co. at the southwest corner of 7th and K streets. And, to judge from the character of the goods displayed, it is reasonable to believe that the statement is based on fact.
It is common knowledge that the great establishment in Washington has been so crowded with Christmas shoppers since the 1st of December.

While the demand largely is for fancy articles for Christmas gifts, still many persons believe in combining utility with show in the selection of presents. No establishment south of New York engaged in the sale of footwear, it is claimed, offers as large an assortment of both the useful and the fancy as do William Hahn & Co.'s.
There are shoes, slippers, rubbers, rubber and leather boots and leggings to suit all tastes. Rubber boots will delight the little ones, and shoes are most appropriate, especially as gifts for household employees, and slippers for men and women.

Hahn's houses are famous for reliable goods, and by buying in immense quanties it is possible to retail them at low prices. Half a hundred salespeople are employed the year around by the firm, and this force has been largely augmented to meet the holiday increase of trade. Christmas shoppers at Hahn's are assured that they will be given prompt and efficient attention and almost immediate delivery. In addition to the main store at 7th and K streets, there are branches conducted by William Hahn & Co. at 233 Pennsylvania avenue southeast and at 1914-1916 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Goods purchased at one of the stores may be exchanged at either of the other two.

SOME FINE FURNITURE.
More Original and Elegant Designs Than Ever Before Shown.
No season in many years, if ever, has witnessed the production of a greater variety, and more original and elegant designs, in furniture than has this season. In no line is this more evident than in what may be termed the "small furniture," which is so greatly in demand for holiday giving.
Of course, when the matter of furniture—great or small—is under consideration, the subject is in nearly every case associated in the mind with the establishment of W.
B. Moses & Sons, and a visit to this great store at this season is in the nature of a liberal education in what is newest and best in furniture.

Every department has its Christmas stock, but of greatest interest, perhaps, is the display to be seen in the fifth floor department. One of the striking features of the exhibit here is the new Raffia, or African fiber, furniture in many articles of utility and ornament. Further evidence of "The Best Thing That Has Been Written About Me." That is the criticism which Admiral Dewey himself made on Hon. John Barrett's book ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY.

A SKETCH OF THE MAN.
Mr. Barrett, former United States Minister to Siam, spent the ten months succeeding the battle of Manila Bay with Admiral Dewey, and aside from being an accurate personal study of the man, his narrative gives for the first time an authentic account of Dewey's relations with the Germans and his negotiations with Aguinaldo.

the lavish regard for the requirements of the holiday season is found in the profusion of "giveables" in every hand, including the newest pyro-decorated pieces in unique pipe racks, stool racks, the holders, laurel wreaths, etc. Easy chairs in hundreds of styles; more than two hundred designs in ladies' desks, and a great variety of desk chairs. Reception chairs, corner chairs, window seats, and an almost en-less variety of odd pieces in gilt and in mahogany. There are displays of bamboo, reed and willow furniture and a multitude of furniture notions which make gift-giving both easy and pleasant.
Messrs. W. B. Moses & Sons state that their stock of holiday goods, as well as the general furniture lines, is larger than they have ever before shown.

Withering Effect of Knowledge.
From the Chicago Tribune.
"Don't you just doze on Strauss' 'Beautiful Blue Danube' waltzes?" asked the radiant little Miss from St. Louis.
"They are simply intolerable to me," answered the coldly intellectual girl from Boston. "When I reflect upon the fact, known to all travelers, that the color of the Danube is a brownish yellow."
